

GUIDE TO REQUESTING INFORMATION ABOUT YOURSELF

This document discusses your rights when government entities collect and keep information about you. Minnesota Statutes, section 13.05, subd. 8, requires the Minnesota Department of Education (MDE) to have this document.

Data about You

The Minnesota Government Data Practices Act (Data Practices Act), Chapter 13 of the Minnesota Statutes, ensures that data subjects have certain rights related to a government entity collecting, creating, and keeping government data about them. Government data means all recorded information collected, created, received, maintained or disseminated by a government agency like MDE, in any form, including paper documents, emails, electronic databases, CDs and photographs or videos.

You are the subject of data when you can be identified from the data.

Your Rights under the Data Practices Act

MDE must keep all government data in a way that makes it easy for you to access data about you. Also, MDE can collect and keep only the data about you that it needs for administering and managing programs that are permitted by law.

Classification of Data about You

The Data Practices Act presumes that all government data is public unless a state or federal law provides that the data is not public. Data about you is classified by state law as public, private or confidential.

Public data is all government data that MDE collects, creates, receives, maintains or disseminates that is not classified by state statute or federal law as private or confidential. MDE must give public data to anyone who asks for the data; it does not matter who is asking for the data, or why. Examples of public data about individuals that is maintained by MDE include teacher salary data or, if you are an employee of a government entity, the fact that you work for the entity, and your job title and bargaining unit.

Private data is data about you that is made not public by statute or federal law. Private data cannot be shared with the general public, but you can have access when the data is about you. Examples of private data maintained by MDE include educational data about an identifiable individual student, and the Social Security numbers of teacher license applicants.

MDE can share your private data with you, with someone who has your written permission, with MDE staff who need the data to do their work, and as permitted by law or court order. When the private data involve a minor child, like much of the educational data that MDE maintains do, the definition of an individual includes the minor child's parent for data practices purposes.

Confidential data has the most protection. Neither the public nor you can get access to this data, even when the confidential data is about you. MDE can share confidential data about you with MDE staff who need the data to do their work, and with others as permitted by law or court order. MDE holds very little confidential data, but examples of this type of data that MDE maintains is data about an ongoing employee disciplinary action and the identity of mandated maltreatment reporters.

Your Access to Your Data

You have the right to look at (inspect), free of charge, public and private data that MDE keeps about you. You also have the right to get copies of public and private data about you. The Data Practices Act allows MDE to charge for copies, though you may choose to inspect data, free of charge, before deciding to request copies.

As a parent, you have the right to look at and get copies of public and private data about your minor children (under the age of 18). In many cases, federal law also permits parents to access private educational data about their children who are age 18 or older.

As a legally appointed guardian, you have the right to look at and get copies of public and private data about an individual for whom you are appointed guardian.

If you ask, MDE will tell you whether it keeps data about you and whether the data is public, private or confidential.

When MDE Collects Data from You

If MDE asks you to provide data about yourself that is not public, it must give you a notice. The notice is sometimes called a Tennessee warning, and it controls what MDE does with the data that it collects from you. Usually, MDE can use and release the data it has collected from you only in the ways described in the notice.

MDE will ask for your written permission if it needs to use or release private data that it collected from you in a different way, or if you ask MDE to release the data to another person. This permission is called informed consent. If you want MDE to release data to another person, you may use the consent form MDE provides.

Note that much of the private data held by MDE – primarily, student educational data – is not collected by MDE directly from the individual data subjects but rather is received by MDE from schools, which are required by both state and federal law to share this data with MDE. Those same federal and state laws also allow or direct MDE to share this data without your prior consent with a limited number of outside entities, such as other schools, the federal government's education department, MDE contractors and other legally qualified entities.

Protecting Your Data

The Data Practices Act requires MDE to protect your data, and MDE has established appropriate safeguards to ensure that your data is safe. In the unfortunate and unlikely event that MDE determines a security breach has occurred and an unauthorized person has gained access to your data, MDE will notify you as required by law.

When Your Data Is Inaccurate and/or Incomplete

You have the right to challenge the accuracy and/or completeness of public and private data about you. You also have the right to appeal MDE's decision in response to your challenge. If you are a minor, your parent or guardian has the right to challenge data about you.

How to Make a Request for Your Data

To look at data or request copies of data that MDE holds about you, your minor child or an individual for whom you have been appointed legal guardian, make a written data request by sending a letter or email to the appropriate Data Practices Contact, or by faxing a data practices request to the attention of the Data Practices Compliance Official. MDE has several Data Practices Contacts who can respond to data requests. They are listed on the Data Practices Contacts page, which is included in this document and is also available on the department's data practices webpage.

Your written request should:

- state that you are making a request for data under the Data Practices Act, Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 13, as a data subject;
- state whether you would like to look at the data, get copies of the data, or both;
- include a clear description of the data you would like to inspect or have copied; and
- include identifying information that proves you are the data subject or data subject's parent or guardian.

Alternatively, you may use the Data Request Form that is included at the end of this document.

MDE requires proof of your identity before it can respond to your request for data about you that is private. In addition, if you are requesting data about your minor child, you must show proof that you are the minor's parent. If you are a guardian, you must show legal documentation of your guardianship. For information about how to demonstrate proof of your identity, please see the Standards for Verifying Identity page, which is included in this document and is also available on the department's data practices webpage.

If you are not sure how to describe the data you would like to inspect or copy, feel free to contact the Data Practices Compliance Official or other MDE Data Practices Contact before making your request.

How MDE Responds to a Data Request

Upon receiving your written request, MDE will work to process it in a timely manner.

- If MDE does not have the data, it will notify you in writing within 10 business days.
- If MDE has the data, but the data is confidential and not available to you, it will notify you in writing within 10 business days and state which specific law says the data is not available to you.
- If MDE has the data, and the data is public or private data about you, it will respond to your request within 10 business days by doing one of the following:
 - arranging a date and time to inspect data at MDE offices, for free, if your request is to look at the data, or
 - providing you with copies of the data. You may pick up your copies or MDE will mail them to you. If you want MDE to send you the copies, you will need to provide MDE with an address. MDE will provide electronic copies by email or other safe method of file transfer upon request if MDE keeps the data in electronic format. MDE also will arrange for you to pre-pay for the copies if your request results in a copy charge. Information about copy charges is found on the Copy Costs page included in this document and on the department's data practices webpage.
- If your request requires clarification in order to process, MDE will contact you by letter, email, or phone call to discuss your request and mutually arrange how MDE will proceed with the request.

If you come in to review records, an MDE staff member may be with you during your review, particularly if you are reviewing original records or large amounts of documentation. If you do not understand some of the data, such as technical terminology, abbreviations or acronyms, please contact your MDE Data Practices Contact. MDE will give you an explanation if you ask for one.

After MDE has provided you with access to data about you, it does not have to show you the data again for 6 months unless there is a dispute or MDE collects or creates new data about you.

Creating New Data or Providing Data in Different Formats

The Data Practices Act does not require MDE to create or collect new data in response to a data request if we do not already have the data, or to provide data in a specific form or arrangement if we do not keep the data in that form or arrangement. If MDE agrees to create data in response to your request, the department will work with you on the details of your request, including cost and response time.

The Data Practices Act also does not require MDE to answer questions that are not requests for data.

You are always welcome to direct your data request or concern to the Responsible Authority, however, please note that requests and concerns generally are handled by specific MDE staff members. COPY COSTS FOR INDIVIDUAL DATA SUBJECTS

The Minnesota Department of Education (MDE) may charge data subjects for copies of government data. These charges are authorized under Minnesota Statutes, section 13.04, subdivision 3.

You must pay for the copies before MDE will give them to you.

MDE does not charge for copies if the cost is less than $10.00.

Actual Cost of Making the Copies

When a data subject asks for copies of data about themselves, MDE may charge the actual costs for an employee to make those copies. In determining the actual cost of making copies, MDE factors in employee time, the cost of the materials onto which it copies the data (paper, CD, DVD, etc.), and mailing costs (if any):

- The actual material cost of a paper copy is 10¢ per copied page, which is one side of a piece of paper.
- The cost of employee time to make copies is $24.71 per hour.
- If your request is for copies of data that MDE cannot reproduce internally, such as photographs or transcripts, MDE will charge you the actual cost it must pay an outside vendor for the copies.

What MDE Does Not Include in Copy Charges

As a courtesy to our community, MDE never charges for the time of the Data Practices Compliance Official or other data practices staff, even when those individuals are substantially involved in making copies of data. In addition, MDE does not charge for the first two (2) hours of program staff time spent making copies of data.

Discretionary Copy Charge Waivers

In some cases, whether MDE charges you a copy charge will depend on the costs to the department for providing the copies compared to its costs for collecting and recording a copy charge payment from you. If the cost of providing the copies is outweighed by the costs to MDE for collecting and recording your payment, MDE may waive your copy charge.
